

La Chambre de la sécurité financière: Quebec's leadership in action!

The Chambre de la sécurité financière plays an important role in protecting the public and developing a Quebec network of personal finance consultants and representatives who are highly competent.

When the National Assembly entrusted the Chambre with its mandate, it was seeking to conserve Quebec's leadership in assuring sound professional practices. The Quebec government has chosen the model of self-regulating organisms, and as such, the Chambre de la sécurité financière oversees its 30,000 members who specialize in six disciplines: group savings plan brokerage, financial planning, personal insurance, personal group insurance, scholarship plan brokerage, and investment contract brokerage.

Drawing on its strong regional network, the Chambre de la sécurité financière has developed the know-how and expertise essential to ensuring that financial products and services are distributed professionally and competently throughout Quebec.

The Chambre de la sécurité financière: yet another example of Quebec's leadership in protecting professional excellence and the public.
